

Here are the details for the keeper league. I have hopefully laid out each of the possible situations.

1. Each team will be able to keep up to two players each year with a maximum of 4 consecutive years per player. (Can keep a player a total of three times + initial draft year.)

2. Team draft order starting in year 2008 will be determined by the finishing order of teams with the team with the worst record picking first.

3. Players selected to be kept from a team for the following year will impact the following year draft. Kept players will result in forfeit of that draft position from the following year.

For example, if you decide to keep two players that you selected in the 1st and 5th rounds, the draft the following years you will forfeit your 1st and 5th round draft picks.

4. Players kept that are acquired via trade will have the same draft forfeit. For example, if you keep a player you drafted in the first round and traded and kept a player taken in the 3rd round, then you forfeit your 1st and 3rd round pick.

5. If players kept are both taken in the same round (i.e. acquire one player via trade or free agency) the player will forfeit that draft selection and the one previous.

For example, if you decide to keep two 2nd round draft picks, the following year you will forfeit your 1st and 2nd pick.

For example, if you decide to keep two 4th round draft picks, the following year you will forfeit your 3rd and 4th picks.

6. Players must be selected for keeping between the start of the FF playoffs and the conclusion of the FF playoffs.

7. A team after declaring their keepers may release the player prior to the following year draft and gain back that draft pick. For example, you decide to keep Player A - who was drafted in the 2nd round - during the offseason makes a surprise announcement that he is retiring, you may release that player and gain back your 2nd round pick. However, you cannot go back and keep any players from your team. After you have selected your two players all players are considered released.

8. If a team owner decides to leave the FF league the players on that team will be assigned to the new team owner. i.e. the players do not enter back into the general pool.

9. Starting for the 2009 season. Team owners will be required to pay a $20.00 buy-in fee that will be split between the championship and 2nd place team - $160.00 for first place, $80.00 for second place.